

Summary

We had great weather and the grounds were in excellent condition with a ring of commendable size, allowing the dogs to show off their best. The show went smoothly, off to a quick start after 5:30 pm, finishing at around 12 midnight, following a breed survey. The show started with 77 entries with 58 shown as per the below;

	STOCK COATS				LONG STOCK COATS

*two open bitches were withdrawn after the gun test.

Generally, classes were small in number but of very good to excellent quality. Majority of animals were presented in good overall coat condition however, there was variation in the overall firmness of the animals. One animal was measured oversize but was of the quality to be of merit and within allowable guidelines to be awarded Excellent. Unfortunately, two open stock coat bitches did not have a sufficient reaction to the gun and were withdrawn from the ring with permission. There was mixed type and style throughout the classes with a large variation in height (with some being measured small/below medium size to very large) and overall proportions with some animals being more stretched than ideal and some more compact. There was very good distinction between sexes and generally very good firmness of hocks and elbows and very good, unexaggerated topline, with good to very good eye colour and expressions. There was good to very good angulation of the forequarter and good to excellent angulation of the hind, with some animals exhibiting praiseworthy moderate balance up upper and lower thigh and some animals with excessive angulation. Firming of hocks and elbows is required on some of the younger animals with some bordering on deep and excessive hindquarter angulation and steepness in the backline.

There were some highlights for me to be able to judge and importantly, there was more consistent quality in the long stock coats than the stock coats. The minor puppy long stock coat bitch is richly coloured and pigmented substantial female with very good type and proportions showing much promise for the future. The intermediate bitch long stock coat Kaygarr Esther and my eventual Best In Show winner was daughter of the Open bitch and Res Best Bitch and was sired by the Best Dog winner. This female impresses with her outline at all phases, firmness, dryness, enthusiastic ground covering movement that presents a praiseworthy performance. The open bitch winner, of absolute quality too was also a standout amongst competition for me.

A standout in the class and stock coat females was the open and my Runner Up Best In Show winner, Castastar Incantation. A quality female with balanced movement who maintains a lovely outline at all phases.

The open dog long stock coat class had two excellent exhibits. The first-place dog and eventual Best Dog winner, Eroica Ice Ice Baby put in a commendable performance and was shown in great coat and condition. With not much between the two, the second dog and Runner up Best Dog Lettland Flint, a balanced dog who measured oversize and gives a little away on length of neck and forereach to the first dog and wasn't quite able to match the performance of the first dog on the evening. The intermediate stock coat dog, Iccara Hard Rocco was my best dog and impresses with is type, masculinity and praiseworthy over and underlines.

I would like to thank the entire committee for the opportunity to judge and their hospitality. In particular, President Sharon T, Jocelyn & Gary, Sue B and Fred for their support and Hilare for her great stewarding. Thank you to the exhibitors, it was a very enjoyable night and I really appreciate the entries given the circumstances with wild weather of late.

Thank you,

Kurt
