64 – 28 – Worn lower incisors 1-1 – A just above medium size, well coated, medium strong boned, distinctly masculine, stretched dog with very good character who gives a very good impression in stance. Very good head and expression with very good skull and nasal ridge alignment, good ear size and set, medium eye colour with good shape and set, powerful neck of good reach, high withers, a downward lumbar spine bend, firm back, very good fore and deep hindquarter angulation, very good fore and underchest development, very good length of foreleg, stepping from the rear the hocks should be just a little firmer, standing and stepping correct in front. During movement he shows a powerful drive with very good forereach transmitted through a firm backline and very good groundcover. During the extended gaiting assessment, his consistency and harmony was broken a number of times when he lost sight of or interest in the double handler. EXCELLENT

A large, just medium strong boned, black and red dog of very good character who impresses me as I look at him in that he is pleasingly devoid of any form of exaggeration. With very good ear set and size, very good planes of the skull and nasal ridge, he stands straight and clean viewed from the front, has good eye colour shape and set, good reach of neck, good withers, a slight nick in front of a straight firm back, a long but slightly steep croup, the upper arm is well angled but could be just a little longer, very good hindquarter angulation, very good length of foreleg, very good fore and slightly short underchest development, stepping correct behind and in front. During the individual assessment he showed very good drive and reach transmitted through a firm tight backline. In initial and secondary stand for examination phases I note there is a tendency to stand propped in front. He is a very good moving dog at the walk and trot, but during the extended gaiting assessment phase he should be more consistent in terms of his stepping sequence and harmony.

He should stand just more correct viewed from the front and the pasterns should be firmer. Dark well shaped eyes, the ears are of good size and well set, good length of neck, high withers, a slight downward lumbar spine bend with a firm backline, a well laid croup of very good length, very good fore and hindquarter angulation, very good fore and underchest development, very good length of foreleg, stepping correct behind with good hock firmness, stepping from the front the elbows could be a little tighter. During movement he shows very good drive with very good forehand reach transmitted through a firm tight backline. The impediment that I viewed from the front impeded a higher position in the class of what is an excellent male German Shepherd Dog. EXCELLENT

64 – 30 – Worn lower incisors 1-1 – A just medium size boned, medium strong, very well coloured and substantial bodied dog, who gives a very good impression in stance. He has very good strength of the skull and foreface, with very good skull and nasal ridge alignment, a dark mask, very good eye shape and set with medium eye colour, good ear size and set, good withers, slight downward lumbar spine bend. Of note is his exceptionally forehand construction but too deep hindquarter angulation (overlong tibia). Very good foreleg length, very good fore and underchest development, the pasterns could be a little firmer, stepping correct behind and in front. He is an enthusiastic and energetic dog who loves running, but during the movement assessment, especially during the extended assessment, because of his fore and hind imbalance, he has a tendency to carry his head a little high and there needs to be better harmony, better balance between the rear and fore steps.
